QUIETLY MARRIED

Mr. George A. Hill and Miss Isabella Stoler Surprize Their Many Friends

Tuesday afternoon Miss Isabella Stoler, of this city, and Mr. George A. Hill, of this city, were quietly married in the parlors of the parsonage of St. Patrick's Church, Rev. Father P. M. Jones, officiating. The bride was dressed in a Belgian blue traveling suit, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. Nora K. Brown was also gowned in blue. The groom and his brother, Mr. Evans Hill, who was best man, wore the conventional black.

After the ceremony the happy couple departed on a honeymoon trip through the northwest.

The wedding of the popular young couple was a big surprise to their many friends in this locality as it had been kept quite secret. The groom is one of the rising young business men of the town and the bride by her charming personality has won a host of friends. The Ledger extends congratulations to the happy young couple and wishes them a happy and prosperous life.

BETTER WATCH

"That Dog-Gone Dorg of Yours"

The police officials have started a campaign to rid this city of all stray dogs and varmints. This is a very commendable move and the officials will find that they have hosts of supporters, as stray dogs in this town have been more than a nuisance. Dog owners are warned to pay the tax on their canines or they will be sent to the happy hunting grounds where bones and cats abound, by the pistol bullet route.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FUNERAL

The funeral of Mr. James Collopy, of Hamilton, Ohio, which was held in this city Tuesday, was largely attended by friends and relatives. The remains of the deceased arrived here on No. 2 C. & O., and were taken to the Catholic cemetery at Washington for interment.

ENTERTAIN ROYALTY

Residents of Bachelor's Hall Spring Surprise on Their Friends

Last evening The Inn, or better known as Bach Hall, the residence of Messrs. J. J. Lynch, S. G. Hibler, Nat Cook, Elmer Beckett and Elmer Thompson, in East Second street, was the scene of much merriment when these good citizens gave an entertainment to their friends and neighbors. The evening was made merry by Bradford's orchestra of five pieces and Mr. E. Weber and Miss Addie Boyd delighted the guests with their vocal and instrumental numbers. At a late hour the party adjourned to the dining room which was decorated in red where Caterer Traxel delighted their palates with some of his famous viands. The guests departed unanimous in their declaration that The Jolly Bachelors were good entertainers.

Mrs. Arn was a member of the First Baptist Church, and her works of charity are numerous. Besides her husband she is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cooper of Richmond, Ind., two sisters, Miss Alene Cooper, of Richmond, Ind., and Mrs. Beecher Holiday, of this city, and two brothers, Mr. Edward Cooper, of Atchison, Kansas, and Mr. Fred Cooper, of Richmond, Ind.

BIG GAME PROMISED

When Doctors and Druggists Meet for Benefit of Health League Auto

About the biggest thing in this year's sport events is scheduled in the game of base ball to be played by the doctors and druggists, for the benefit of the fund recently started, for the purpose of purchasing an automobile to be used by the nurse of the Mason County Health League.

The druggists promise that they will trim the M. D. fellows to such an extent that they will feel as if they had just come through an all day session of a barbers convention, and the medicos are insistent that they will operate upon the druggists and amputate most if not all of their base ball boast and pride.

Almost every afternoon in some back lot or alley, the druggists can be seen limbering up their arms and using in the process immense quantities of their liniment stock. They have secured the services of a pitcher in whom they place the utmost confidence and loudly boast that his work will go far towards bringing the bacon into the Para-camp of the Pill Jugglers.

Information that would disclose the identity of this pitcher can not be pried from the drug boys with a crow bar but they say he will administer such a dose to the doctors as they never imagined was in the Pharmacopoeia.

The M. D.'s are likewise making every preparation for the onslaught. They have gathered together an aggregation of ball players that would make Connie Mac's mouth water with envy, and are confident that they have properly diagnosed the case of their opponents and that they will speedily cure them by prescribing the same dose they administered several years ago.

Everybody is working hard to make this game a big success and the whole community should give enthusiastic support to this game for such a worthy cause.

BUYS HANDSOME HOUSE BOAT

Mr. William Henry Farwick and Mr. Duke Anderson Rudy, of this city, went to Rome, Ohio, Tuesday to bring down their new house boat recently purchased from Captain Laurence Rice, of that place. The boat arrived here this morning and is 52 feet long and 16 feet wide. It will be painted and several new features added, making it the peer of any on the river.

Commander Farwick and Captain Rudy have not decided what to name their boat as yet, but will christen her in the next few days with appropriate ceremonies. The boat at present is at the landing at the foot of Limestone St.

TEMPORARILY DERANGED

Prof. Edward Brand Placed In Safe Keeping

Tuesday morning Prof. Edward Brand, of this city, was placed under arrest by Constable James McNamara, on the charge of lunacy. Prof. Brand, who is instructor in mathematics in Howard College, Birmingham, Ala., was spending the summer months with his brother, Dr. Leslie Brand of Third street. For the last few days he has been acting queer but Tuesday he became violent and in fear of his doing bodily harm to some one he was placed in the hospital department of the county jail for safe keeping until he can be removed to a sanatorium. Prof. Brand is recognized in the South as a leading mathematician and it is thought that hard study together with worry over an injury to his limb caused his mind to give way temporarily, and that a few months rest will fully restore his reason.

PINK AND GREEN CATS

Some time ago a young man amused himself by painting live cats red, blue and purple, and giving them to his friends as rare specimens. But last week in New York, two poor men, out of work, caught some sparrows and turned them into canary birds with paint, and sold them to get bread for their families, until they were arrested for fraud.

It is said that skillful lawyers, by mental process, can change black into white, and painters can certainly do it easily with brush and color.

There is, too, a kind of advertising paint in common use that changes lots of things so that their makers would not know them, and the confiding public is imposed upon thereby. What is the difference between the poor, punished vendor of painted birds and the store people who, by ignorance or design, or by the use of two prices on tickets, put on the color of exaggeration to increase the value of wares?

Foxes come at last to be furriers.

GARBAGE REMOVAL

Some time ago the matter of garbage removal was brought before the council and was referred to committee, where it has evidently met a peaceful though untimely death, and if the people had, during this time, shown as little interest in this matter of such real importance to the health and welfare of the community as has that body to whom they have entrusted the affairs of government, the city would long since have suffered from this neglect.

The removal of garbage by the city is as much of an obligation upon the city government as the paving of the streets and the erection of a new City Building, and while these and other things, which are readily enough undertaken by the council, are also needed and are improvements which are necessarily favored by all who are interested in the progress of the city, it would seem that some means could be found to take care of a condition which threatens the health of the community.

As it is now each householder is compelled to provide for the disposal of garbage and refuse at his individual expense, and while there are some to whom this is not a prohibitive burden, there are others upon whom it is a great hardship, and certainly it is an injustice to all when it is considered that the rate of taxation should be ample to take care of all city needs and many improvements as well.

There are those citizens who will bow to the inevitable and properly provide for their refuse no matter how much of an injustice they might consider it, but there are those hundreds of others who, through ignorance or carelessness, will allow their garbage to take care of itself thus endangering the health of themselves and their families and of the whole community as well.

This condition is a matter of grave responsibility; one that the council should be unwilling to assume, and imposes an obligation which it can not avoid.

When a woman has vainly tried fifty-six ways of making a man propose she can always succeed at the psychological moment by "giving him up," for another man.

From Atchison, Kan., comes the story of a windmill on top of a chicken coop, which during a high wind caught fire from the heat of the friction caused by the swift revolution of the arms. The coop was destroyed.

The Argentine National Health Department has posted signs along the principal streets of Buenos Aires, telling what animals and insects should be avoided to lessen the dangers of infectious diseases.

When the Algerian infantrymen, otherwise known as Turcos, are hard pressed during hand-to-hand fighting they climb trees like monkeys and hide in the leaves.

After forty years of bachelorhood a man is apt to acquire rheumatism of the emotions, fatty degeneration of the heart and paralysis of the conscience.

The Minneapolis Journal says: "When they told him the Nebraska was torpedoed, the President eagerly asked, 'Which one?'"

Their Longest Run

"Your show was the worst we have ever had here," said the manager of the Hickville Opera House, as he handed the manager of the Fly-by-Night company his share of the box office receipts. "That's queer," said the manager of the company. "Why, when we played in Chicago, we had the longest run in the history of the city."

"I'm sorry," replied the manager of the opera house.

"Sorry about what?" demanded the manager of the company.

"Sorry the audience abandoned the chase," replied the manager of the opera house.—Youngstown Telegraph.

A Vain Ambition.

George Shima, "the potato king," is a Japanese resident of Lodi, Cal.

Mr. Shima praised the other day the government department of Agriculture, to whose help he attributes much of California's success.

"The American department is too good," he said, "to be hit by the story of the ambitious farm boy."

"Pa," said a farm boy, "why can't I rise in the world like Washington or Franklin? Why, for instance, can't I become Secretary of Agriculture some day?"

"Alas, my son, too late, too late!" the father sighed. "You know too much about farming."

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING
ECONOMY.

Making Room for Things
Charming homes often fail in usefulness if closets and storage space be lacking, for "a place for everything" is an ideal condition that cannot prevail if "places" are not provided.

Dark closets and high shelves are almost as annoying as none, so in modern houses we see a greater number of windows and oddly shaped angles when looking at their exteriors. Once inside, however, we find that cozy corners, window seats, light, airy closets and convenient pantries make their interior most inviting and convenient.

More and more homes are planned by women each year and even unpretentious houses have hosts of conveniences because of this.

Women insist that closets and shelves shall be: First, easy to reach; second, light and ventilated; third, easy to keep in order. Many old-fashioned houses might be remodeled along this important line of convenience, without many dollars being spent, if their mistresses would give consideration to the storage question.

The dark spaces beneath stairways would be better if the partitions were torn out. Practical carpenters know how to put convenient drawers into small spaces and shelves under low eaves.

A great deal is told of women walking miles in the preparation of a single meal on account of poorly arranged kitchens, but in thousands of homes bed linen is kept on a floor above or below the sleeping chambers or the chests and drawers that hold clothing and bedding are in darkness day and night.

To alleviate these conditions we have offered to us, built-in elevators that repose in the attic when filled and are hauled down by hand pulleys when their contents are needed. Dumb waiters that lower into basements between meals, or sliding refrigerators that save space in some crowded houses are other solutions offered long suffering women. Folding ironing boards, collapsible tables, beds built on the backs of doors, shelves attached to steam radiators and thousands of other non-sensical makeshifts are sold us to increase our annoyance.

What we want is light and space; we cannot have the last for we are too numerous, but working utensils may be placed where they can be reached, shelves may be made low and broad and arranged so that one may see at a glance all their contents. No architect or carpenter is needed for this either; it is just a case of deciding in favor of such simple storage space.

A WORD WITH WOMEN

Valuable Advice for Mayville Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and urinary disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

You can tell it is kidney trouble if the secretions are dark colored, contain sediment; the passages are too frequent or scanty. Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed at home—Read this Mayville woman's convincing statement:

Mrs. Dora McLeod, Mayville, Ky., says: "I had been feeling poorly for some time, before I knew that my kidneys were at fault. I was nervous and dizzy and my back and head ached. I rested poorly and mornings I was all tired out. I read in a local paper how a neighbor had been cured of kidney trouble by Doan's Kidney Pills. I used them and before long I was a great deal better. I was able to sleep well and they improved my health."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McLeod had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Aselin Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"After my little one was born I was sick with pains in my sides which the doctors said were caused by inflammation. I suffered a great deal every month and grew very thin. I was under the doctor's care for two long years without any benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try it we got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the third bottle of the Compound I was able to do my housework and today I am strong and healthy again. I will answer letters if anyone wishes to know about my case."—Mrs. JOSEPH ASELIN, 606 Fourth Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy we know for woman's ills. If you need such a medicine why don't you try it?

GERMAN NOTE STILL UNDER ADVISEMENT

Washington, June 7.—President Wilson, let it be known today that the note which the United States is to send to Germany with respect to submarine warfare had been prepared with the utmost expedition and had not been subjected to an hour's unnecessary delay since it was first drafted. The President's desire to have the document state explicitly the position of the United States government so that it cannot possibly be misunderstood abroad or invite protracted discussion on the fundamental issues involved is chiefly responsible for the fact the note has not yet gone.

Legal officers of the government examined the note with minute care today and sent it back to the president with some changes.

It may require further consideration by the president and his cabinet tomorrow, and high officials did not know tonight just when it would be cabled.

Questions of such serious moment are involved in the wording of the new note that the president is anxious that the communication not only shall meet his own wishes but should be unimpeachable from the point of view of the experts in international law.

While the president has been at work on the document, special agents of the United States government have by their investigation corroborated in every detail the statement made in the first American note—that the Lusitania was unarmed.

THE WASHINGTON

Overwork is usually the product of neglect in the past and impatience for the future.

LOVES OF GREAT AMERICANS.
James Russell Lowell's Two Romances

Imagine yourself by the side of a young lady, the perfection of beauty, virtue, modesty, etc. I am not calm yet. Every time I think of her eyes—those eyes! Well, a truce to all recollections when there is no hope.

Oh, I don't know what to do about her! She runs in my head and heart more than she has any right to!

Thus, in 1837, did eighteen-year-old James Russell Lowell write to a fellow-Harvard student. And the girl who had smitten the heart of the future poet and Ambassador was Miss Brooks, a beautiful young Bostonian, whose family was intimate with his own.

It was a boy-and-girl. But Lowell threw himself heart and soul into it until it became the only important thing in his world. It possessed his whole mind to such an extent that he was suspended from Harvard for neglecting his studies. He ran a swift but fiercely turbulent course, and it ended with a sudden shock that in a night turned a light hearted boy into a moody man.

To this day, the reason for the break between Miss Brooks and Lowell is not generally known. It remains a secret; but its effect on the lover was to unsettle his purpose in life, and for a time to make him forswear love.

He was graduated from Harvard and took up law study. But he found it impossible to concentrate his abilities on anything. The bitter memory of one girl eclipsed all else. He dabbled at law and at literature; making a success of neither; disappointing his family by his apparent laziness and his utter refusal to make the best of his brilliant intellect.

But, even as a woman had shattered his early dreams, so another was to set his feet on the road to greatness. After two years of sullen brooding he chanced to meet Maria White, daughter of a Watertown, Mass., farmer. Her brother had been Lowell's classmate at Harvard, and invited him to visit at the Watertown farmhouse.

Lowell, at first, was only mildly attracted to Maria. He described her to a friend as "a very pleasant and pleasing young lady." But (at twenty!) he had decided to put all thoughts of love behind him forever. So he did not know for a long time that he was learning to care for this new divinity. At last, he wrote to a friend:

"She is truly a glorious girl; with her spirit eyes. They tell me I shall be in love with her. But there is only one Love. I love her because she is a woman. And so was another Being whom I loved. If that other love could rouse such a tempest in my soul, I think a disappointment from Miss White would break my heart."

Soon after he proposed to Maria and she accepted him. For five years their engagement lasted. And during that time, under Maria White's influence, Lowell sprang into fame. Love awakened his poetic soul. His poems won instant notice (though for a time he got only $5 a page for them). Under thinly-veiled names Maria was the heroine of all his wondrous love lyrics. She was his inspiration.

The Slavery Question just then was stirring the public mind. Lowell had believed in slavery. Maria was an ardent abolitionist. She converted him to her way of thinking. And, because of her, he gave his pen to the cause of freedom. In "Biglow papers" he furiously attacked slavery; yet in a way to set the whole country laughing at the slave owners. Ridicule is ever a powerful weapon. And "Biglow Papers" struck mighty blows for the anti-slavery cause.

On December 26, 1844, Lowell and Maria were married. Just before the wedding the bridegroom wrote to the friend who so long had been his confidant:

"I mean to live as one beloved by such a woman should live." And, to the day of his wife's death, nine years later, he held unswervingly to this high resolve.

JUNIOR REDPATH CLUB

Who are we!
Who are we!
Hip a hip a yi yi!
J. R. C!!

An enthusiastic audience of about three hundred children organized the Junior Redpath Club at the High School Auditorium Monday afternoon. The following officers were elected:

President—William Tully.
Secretary—Nan Chenault.
The organization is under the auspices of the Redpath Chautauqua and the following local committee of public-spirited club women, Mrs. Eugene Merz, Mrs. T. M. Russell, Mrs. O. L. Bartlett, Mrs. Frances Davis, Mrs. Lilla Hall Smith, Miss Lida Woods, Miss Grace Bierbower, Mrs. Abner Hord, Mrs. R. B. Lovel and Miss Marie Rains.

Mrs. Grace Tatum, an able and enthusiastic play-ground worker and representative of the Redpath Chautauqua, addressed the children's mass meeting, where she explained the purpose of the Junior Club play ground work. The plans were comprehensive and attractive. The story telling feature is to be particularly emphasized. Folk love stories in costume will be given by Miss Frim, the children's worker, who will also give instruction in the folk dances corresponding to the folk tales.

The program also embraces special work for boys. A boy's worker is to be in charge of this department who will coach classes in athletics, organize cross country expeditions, give practical instruction in first aid, and devote one afternoon to an athletic meet.

Another feature is the offer of prizes for the best stories sent in by children, ages ranging from six to sixteen years, to Mr. H. C. Barnes, before June 26th. The story is to be of a Chautauqua, the characters to be boys and girls, and is limited to seven hundred words.

The most intense enthusiasm was exhibited by the children present who are looking with keen pleasure to the delights in store for them during the coming chautauqua.

IMPROVING THE LAWN

Repair, Improvement and General Management

Washington, D. C., June 8—The improvement of an old lawn is a very much more difficult problem than establishing a new one. In many cases it is impracticable to attempt the improvement of an old lawn that is in bad condition say the specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. However, if a reasonably good turf obtains, it is possible to better it materially by reseeding, fertilizing and watering. In the majority of cases improvement is desired in the spring, since at this season many bare spots are in evidence as the result of the preceding winter. If the areas to be improved are small, they can be hand-worked and reseeded with little difficulty. If they are large, it is usually advisable to spade them up, work thoroughly, and seed, as in the case of starting a new lawn. In any event, reseeding should be done early in the spring with a liberal quantity of the mixture before described.

When the stand of grass is thin over the entire lawn or a greater portion of it, a special seeder equipped with small disks has been found very satisfactory for setting the seed into the sod and thereby producing favorable conditions for germination and subsequent growth. In the early spring, however, the soil is usually loose as a result of the freezing and thawing and is in sufficiently open condition to permit the seed to be covered with little difficulty. After seeding, if the ground has become quite dry, rolling is usually beneficial. Care should be taken when mowing or watering the newly seeded areas to avoid disturbing the young grass. This caution always applies in a measure to fall seeding, although there is not so much danger of damage in the case of the latter.

Fertilizing

The management of the lawn after it is once established is an extremely important matter, and there are a few general practices that should be followed carefully. Beginning in the early spring, the first thing to do is to remove with a rake the top dressing that has been applied the fall before. After removing this it is usually advisable to apply some fertilizer, even though the soil is already reasonably fertile. One of the very best fertilizers for the lawn in the spring is nitrate of soda, but on account of its quick action and its caustic effect extreme caution should be used in its application. Five pounds of nitrate of soda are sufficient for 1,000 square feet of lawn, and if applied in solution with the watering pot and the grass then thoroughly watered with a hose, there is little danger of scalding. Bone meal is probably the best commercial fertilizer to use on a lawn, considering the danger from the misuse of nitrate of soda. Bone meal can be used without taking any special caution in its application, as it is in no way injurious to the grass. Eight pounds to 1,000 square feet is a liberal application. Any commercial fertilizer that is used should be applied early in the spring when the grass begins to grow. In fact, bone meal can be used to advantage every month during the growing season, except perhaps July and August. Fertilizing through the season is especially beneficial in keeping the grass stimulated at times when it would otherwise be more or less inactive. Pulverized limestone as a top dressing is very helpful, and an application of this substance can be made either in the fall, winter, or spring. Lime corrects the acidity of the surface soil and is useful in checking the growth of moss and various other plants that are detrimental to the grass.

BETTER BABIES.

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.

Dramatic Baritone to Give Recital During Chautauqua

MARCUS A. KELLERMAN.

ONE of the brightest spots in the Chautauqua calendar for this season is reserved for the third day, when Marcus A. Kellerman, dramatic baritone, will appear in a recital, assisted by Slegmund Herzog, pianist, and Mrs. Herzog, violinist. Mr. Kellerman left Cincinnati ten years ago to pursue his studies abroad. In a remarkably short time he was recognized as a leading baritone. In fact, some of his greatest successes have been achieved in Germany, where he sang leading roles for three years at the Berlin Royal Opera.

Since returning to America Mr. Kellerman has toured with the New York, Minneapolis and St. Paul Symphony Orchestras and has gained wide commendation as soloist with the Boston, Theodore Thomas and Cincinnati Orchestras. He is little more than thirty years of age and is a thorough, whole hearted, happy American. His artistic temperament doesn't prevent a congenial relationship with his fellow men.

GERMAN EQUIPPED TO GIVE FAKE PASSPORT

Washington, June 7.—Ambassador Page has advised the State Department of the circulation in London of stories to the effect that Robert Rosenthal, a German, held there as a spy, recently made a confession in which he charged that Captain von Prieger, of the German admiralty office, had completed equipment for issuing fraudulent American passports. Department officials said today it was presumed the ambassador was investigating and would report later.

SECRETARY BRYAN RESIGNS PORTFOLIO

Washington, June 8.—William Jennings Bryan, three times Democratic candidate for the presidency of the United States, and author of nearly thirty peace treaties with the principal nations of the world, resigned today as Secretary of State, as a dramatic sequel to his disagreement with President Wilson, over the government's policy toward Germany.

The resignation was accepted by the President. The cabinet then approved the response which had been prepared to the German reply to the Lusitania note. Acting Secretary Robert Lansing will sign the document and tomorrow it will be cabled to Berlin.

Secretary Bryan will return to private life tomorrow, when his resignation takes effect. It was learned that he intends to continue his political support of the President.

Rather than sign the document which he believed might possibly draw the United States into the war, Mr. Bryan submitted his resignation in a letter declaring that "the issue involved is of such moment that, to remain a member of the cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war."

The president accepted the resignation in a letter of regret, tinged with deep personal feeling of affection. The letters constituting the official announcement of Mr. Bryan's departure from the cabinet to private life were made public at the White House at six o'clock tonight.

LANSING WILL BE ACTING SECRETARY

Washington, June 8.—Robert Lansing, successor to John Bassett Moore and counselor of the state department becomes secretary of state ad interim tomorrow, when Secretary Bryan's resignation takes effect. He is a son-in-law of John W. Foster, secretary of state under President Harrison, a lifelong Democrat and has been international lawyer for many years.

While there is already much gossip as to President Wilson's probable selection for the secretaryship, it is the president's plan to make no immediate appointment. It would not be surprising if he made no change in the present status of the department personnel for two or three months.

Secretary Franklin K. Lane, of the interior department frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Secretary Bryan, but the belief exists that he will not be chosen on account of his Canadian birth and the fact that the president would find considerable difficulty in finding a man to take over Mr. Lane's important work on the Alaskan railway and other projects of the interior department.

MAYO PROMOTED

Washington, June 8.—Real Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander of the first division of the Atlantic fleet, was designated today by President Wilson as a vice admiral of the navy. He is the first of three vice admirals to be appointed.
